CLASSICAL MOVES

Mark Horton

Our grandchildren like to have a movie night where they can enjoy pizza and popcorn while watching a film. Their current favourites are Nanny McPhee and The Lion King. I am always happy viewing a classic along with a decent bottle of Bordeaux and the other night I watched Darkest Hour. During the film one of the actors quotes from Macaulay's Horatius at the Bridge:

To every man upon this earth, death cometh soon or late; And how can man die better than facing fearful odds, For the ashes of his fathers, and the temples of his Gods.

Bridge players often find themselves in a tight spot and students of the classics will doubtless be familiar with these lines from the start of the poem:

Lars Porsena of Clusium, by the Nine Gods he swore That the great house of Tarquin should suffer wrong no more. By the Nine Gods he swore it, and named a trysting day, And bade his messengers ride forth,

East and West and South and North,

To summon his array.

Without more ado join me for the quarter-final between Austria and USA Lusky:

According to the convention card  $2^{\circ}$  promised 5-10 and assuming 2NT indicated the top of the range it was surprising only a part-score was reached.

East cashed the  $\lozenge$  A and switched to the  $\clubsuit$ 3, declarer winning with dummy's king and running the  $\heartsuit$ Q. East ruffed and exited with a club, declarer winning in hand and playing three rounds of spades pitching two diamonds. West won and returned the  $\lozenge$ 2 so declarer scored an overtrick, +130.

NS were employing Kaplan-Sheinwold, an almost forgotten system.  $2^{\circ}$  was game-forcing unless South rebid the suit.

West led the  $\diamondsuit$ 2 and East won with the king and switched to the  $\clubsuit$ 4. Declarer won with the queen and played a heart to the ace, getting the worst possible news as East pitched the  $\diamondsuit$ 5. Declarer cashed dummy's top spades and then played a club, West ruffing and exiting with the  $\spadesuit$ Q. There was nothing declarer could do and he finished three down, -300 and Austria pocketed 10 IMPs.

My au pair suggested a possible route to the nine -trick game: 1 - 1NT - 2 - 3 - 3 - 3 - 3NT. However, South might well go on to 4 .

East led the  $\lozenge 2$  and declarer won in dummy and played a club to the jack. When it held he cashed the  $\clubsuit A$ , crossed to dummy with a spade and ran the  $\heartsuit Q$ , +490, which cost another 10 IMPs. I fear that playing against a team where most of the players live in Vienna I would have been unable to resist the temptation to cash the red aces and then run the clubs, which would be too much for East.

At this point Austria led 27.1-1.

East led the  $\lozenge$ 10 and declarer won with dummy's ace and ducked a spade, East winning with the jack and continuing with the  $\lozenge$ 5. Declarer won, crossed to the  $\clubsuit$ A and then played clubs. East ruffed the second round and switched to the  $\heartsuit$ 2. West won, cashed the  $\clubsuit$ K and played a diamond removing declarer's last trump. He could cash the  $\clubsuit$ Q but the defenders took the rest for three down, -300.

Had declarer put in the  $\clubsuit 9$  on the second round of the suit he would have emerged with nine tricks, but one has to allow for the possibility that East has started with  $\clubsuit J10x$ .

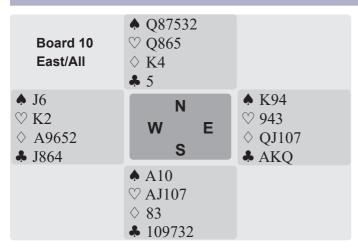

If the contact is 4 declarer does best to win the diamond lead in hand and play a spade to the ten. If West wins and returns a diamond declarer wins in dummy and plays two rounds of spades, needing only to get the clubs right. If you win the diamond lead in dummy East can switch to a club at trick three and upset your entries.

West won and returned the  $\diamondsuit 2$ , East, having discarded a diamond on the second round of spades, ruffing and exiting with a heart. That restricted declarer to eight tricks, +110.

Having taken the  $\heartsuit$ K with the ace declarer can cash the queen, ruff a club and draw trumps when he should emerge with 11 tricks.

Had South rebid 1NT, North might have at least adopted some sort of invitational sequence in hearts.

No matter, +110 meant the loss of 11 IMPs – and a new leader.

The next two deals saw 11 more go in the same direction so Austria needed a minor miracle as the last deal settled on the table:

LAST BOARD(S), EVERYTHING DEPENDS ON IT...

Marek Wójcicki

Semifinal match of LITHUANIA vs POLAND MARKOWICZ could be added as one more chapter to Mark Horton latest book – Last Board, Everything Depends on It. There is of recollection of spectacular matches from the whole history of bridge, from 1957 till 2016, which were decided at the very last board. We had at our tournament one more case of that kind.

This match was particularly interesting for Polish kibitzers, as they could watch many players from Poland in action and particularly one very well known in our country. Looking for line ups, we could expect some good bridge.

And it was. First part of the match was very low scoring. After 15 boards it was 13-7 for LITHUANIA with 5 boards scoring and 10 tied.

Last board of the first half gave substantial swing:

Blat led ♣9 (2nd/4th) to the jack and ace and declarer played a heart. South won with the ace and played a spade won in dummy with the ace. Declarer played now low diamond and North won with the queen and played one more trump. Queen in dummy won and declarer played a low club to the 10, won by South with the queen. Queen of hearts was cashed and South played one more heart, won by North with the jack. It was two down and defenders had one more trick for the trump jack. Down three, 14 imps for POLAND MARKOWICZ who led at half mark by 8 imps − 21-13.

Second half of the match started from exchange of heavy punches.

You are sitting West (love all) with:

LHO opens 3 ♠ and two passes follow. What is your decision?

Jerzy Russyan (Lithuania) decided to double. Look at the complete board:

After double East responded with 4♣ and East/ West finished in a diamond game:

Starkowski led his singleton club. Kwiecień won with the ace and return a spade. Low from hand, North won with the queen and cashed the ace. When the third spade was played, declarer ruffed wioth the king and finessed diamond queen against South - two down.

Bizoń (POLAND MARKOWICZ) after the same opening of 3 \( \Phi \) bid 3NT and all players accepted it...

North led a heart. Declarer won in hand and played ♣K, ducked. At next trick he played a diamond to the nine with success and continued with ♣Q. South won and played a heart. 10 tricks, +430 and 11 imps for POLAND MARKOWICZ.

Board 2 was the tie, slightly surprising at this level of play.

You are sitting South with:

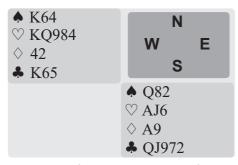

After the simple bidding (the same at both tables):

W	N	Е	S
2♦*	pass	1NT*	pass
3NT	all pass	2♡	pass

1NT - 14+-17

20 - hearts

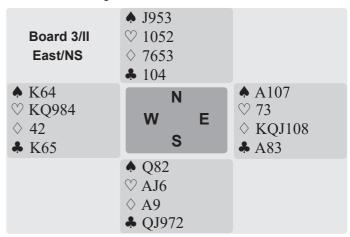

you led ♣Q:

low from dummy,  $\clubsuit 4$  from partner,  $\clubsuit 3$  from hand. You continue with  $\clubsuit J$ . Six, ten (showing even number of clubs), ace. Now declarer plays  $\heartsuit 3...$

Both South players ducked.

This is a complete board:

Declarer won with the honor and played a diamond, setting 9 top tricks.

Could the winning defense be found?

From the simple calculation you see that partner can have at most one jack and if it is  $\clubsuit J$  declarer has no chance unless you are not alerted enough.

Even if declarer has the spade jack, it is not sure that he will be able to find the queen, particularly if partner has the  $\spadesuit 10$ . After this analysis,  $\heartsuit A$  should be played immediately at trick 3 and establish the clubs. And in this particular hand declarer would be limited to 8 tricks -4 hearts, 2 spades. and 2 clubs - without playing diamonds.

Even if he has only 4 diamonds and the ♠ AJxx it is improbable to assume that he will play for the squeeze rather than simple spade finesse.

At board 3 you are on the lead with:

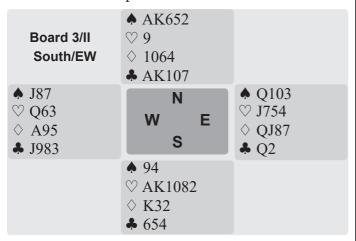

after the bidding:

Bizoń (POLAND MARKOWICZ) bet for a diamond ( $\Diamond$  9, 2nd/4th).

Look at the complete board:

East played a jack, declarer won with the king and played 3 rounds of spades. When the suit split 3-3 (and diamonds 4-3), there were 9 tricks, 400 for Lithuania.

At the other table South decided to open:

			100
pass	1 🖍	pass	1NT
pass	2♦*	pass	2NT*

 $2\diamondsuit$  - artificial game forcing 2NT - denies 3 spades.

Russyan decided for the ♣9 and the contract could not be made. In fact, it ended down 3 for -150 and 11 imps for Lithuania.

In 10 next boards there were 7 small swings. They were swings even if we call 1 imp "the swing" – giving partial score 10-7 for POLAND MARKOWICZ and 2 boards before the end they led by 11 imps, 42-31.

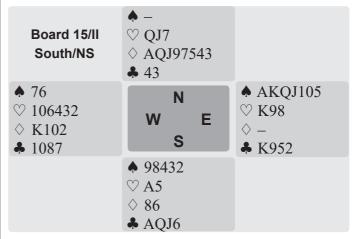

In penultimate board (red vs white) you got:

$$\spadesuit$$
 –  $\heartsuit$  QJ7  $\diamondsuit$  AQJ97543  $\diamondsuit$  43

Partner opens 1  $\spadesuit$ . What is your bid? You play Polish system with 2/1 response forcing to the game, so your options are limited  $-2 \diamondsuit$  (natural GF) or  $3 \diamondsuit$  – natural,  $6+\diamondsuit$ , invitational.

Włodek Starkowski, probably looking at void in partner's suit decided for rather conservative  $3 \diamondsuit$ .

Let's look at the board:

Even such an optimist like Michał Kwiecień did not find any reason with South hand to accept the invitation. East led •A and declarer finessed successfully three kings and completed all the tricks, for the score which is called "little coin" in Poland +190.

Jacek Romański forced to the game withe  $2 \diamondsuit$  response:

Poor East... What kind of convention could be used here to guide partner to lead a spade? Luckily time for the players who were capable enough to do it is over.

Bizoń led $10 and declarer did not risk any finesse except the diamond one and ended with 11 tricks. +660 and 10 imps for LITHUANIA who was trailing by 1 imp before the last board (in case of tie, Lithuania advanced to the final as the team placed higher in qualifications).

Last board, as it often happens, not only in the books, did not look like a flat one:

Russyan with West hand opened 2♠ (weak twosuiter, spade and a minor):

Closed Room

2♠	4♣*	4 ♠	5♡

4♣ - Leaping Michaels, game forcing, at least 5-5 in hearts and clubs

West led a suit preference ♠5. Declarer ruffed, and played with countermeasures – cashed trump ace, entered dummy with the trump ten and played a club towards hand. When West did not ruff, he played queen from hand. East won with the ace and played a spade. Declarer ruffed and played low club to the ten, making 11 tricks. 450 for POLAND MARKOWICZ.

At replay West did not open, as Blat - Bizoń play weak twos:

3% – not constructive'

Should East double 5\ightharpoonup ?? Once there was a rule: "when we are in a game red vs white and they bid higher, our passes are forcing". Is it in common use today?

I do not know agreements of East-West... But modern theory of forcing pass is only slightly less sophisticated than theory of relativity and usually the approach is rather individual and depends on partnership style.

East led club ace and gave partner club ruff, but those wre the only tricks of East/West. 11 tricks and 650 for LITHUANIA. It was 5 imps and the change of the leader – LITHUANIA got the pass to the final.

HOW TO OPEN OR DOWNLOAD BBO FILE OF THE MATCH

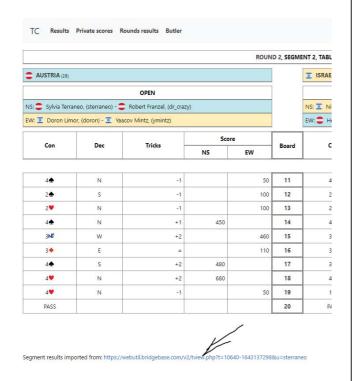

In 2021 BBO files of the matches were easily accessible directly from the website of the tournament. Now BBO works only through browsers, not in the client/server mode and it is slightly more difficult.

We received some questions prom tournament participants how they could find BBO files (*.lin) of the matches. It is possible, I dare say even quite simple. Here is step by step instruction:

- 1. Website of the tournament https://r.pzbs.pl/2022/tsc/web/ should be entered.
- 2. "RESULTS" tab should be clicked https://r.pzbs.pl/2022/tsc/0/
- 3. "ROUNDS RESULTS" should be chosen: https://r.pzbs.pl/2022/tsc/0/#000OO00001001002000000000
- 4. Round number should be clicked.
- 5. Appropriate match should be chosen and scores of the second part should be clicked:

6.Link below scoresheet should be clicked:

7. Then you will be able to see match scorecard with link to each board at each table

8. You can download the lin file by clicking on the download link, open on your computer with BBO Viewer NetBridgeVue or Bridge Composer:
